About Elizabeth

Elizabeth McGrath is an independent consultant with ten years of information systems experience that preceded her twenty plus years consulting to organizations that range from heavy manufacturing to the hospitality industry.

Elizabeth is particularly interested in working with women in organizations, helping them identify and expand upon their leadership talents, gain power in influencing others with integrity, and participate in every conversation with confidence and generosity.

What Clients Say . . .

Elizabeth has such a wonderful manner with the participants as they learn and practice communicating effectively with others . . . with particular attention to women, given the common patterns of behavior that tend to get in the way for women in a business setting.
